

Cells are colored by physical library within each species; colors are not comparable among species.